KNOW YOUR BUSINESS

What is required to make your business successful?

How do these requirements reflect on your business objectives?

Integrate your customer's demands into your business objectives.

Do you have sound business objectives which are clear to your employees?

Who is accountable for what?

What about your service and performance orientation?
And what about the level of openness and trust in your organisation?

PASSION FOR PEOPLE

Success is as much about people as it is about business

To create dedication to satisfied customers you need to start with your ambassadors.

As a manager you:

- are aware of your role
- lead the change
- give and gain trust
- share responsibility

Create the right service orientation and customer focus.

Align your people with the strategy of your organisation.

PERFORMANCE CHALLENGE

Translate the objectives into day to day practice

Involve your employees in the business objectives and their outcome.

Translate the objectives into the practice of each individual

Take time to evaluate performance, to give feedback and to challenge your employees.

Secure the desired behaviour in the performance management cycle

Realise your ambition and share your success.
